STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

On the 19th December, 1952, the Prime Minister informed Parliament that the Government of India had decided to establish an Andhra State consisting of the Telugu speaking areas of the present Madras State, but not including the city of Madras. Mr. Justice Wanchoo was appointed to consider and report on the financial and other implications of this decision and the questions to be considered in implementing it. On the 25th of March, 1953, the Prime Minister announced the decisions reached by Government after careful consideration of Mr. Justice Wanchoo's report and of the other matters connected with the establishment of the Andhra State. As regards the district of Bellary, it was then announced that three of the ten taluks should form part of the Andhra State and six Kannada speaking taluks should form part of the Mysore State; the decision regarding the tenth taluk was reserved for further consideration.

2. On the 20th May, 1953, the Government of India announced their decision regarding the Bellary taluk after consideration of the report of Mr. Justice Misra.

3. This Bill is designed to give effect to the aforesaid decisions of Government. The views of the Legislatures of the States of Madras and Mysore both with respect to the proposal to introduce the Bill and with respect to the provisions thereof have been ascertained as required under the proviso to article 3 of the Constitution. The notes on clauses appended to the Bill explain the provisions thereof.

K. N. KATJU.

NEW DELHI;

The 8th August, 1953.

Notes on Clauses

Clause 1 (2): It is proposed to bring into force Part I and clauses 43, 54, 58, 61, 62, 63, 64, 66 and 69 as soon as the Bill is enacted so as to enable certain preparatory action to be taken before the 1st October, 1953 on which date the new State of Andhra will come into existence and certain areas of the State of Madras will be transferred to the State of Mysore. All the remaining provisions of the Bill will come into force on the 1st October, 1953.

Clause 3: Sub-clause (1) of this clause provides for the formation of the new State of Andhra.

The Alur, Adoni and Rayadrug taluks which are at present included in the Bellary district will, as from the 1st October, 1953, cease to form part of that district. It is, therefore, necessary to include these taluks in some district in the new State of Andhra of which they would form part. It has accordingly been provided in sub-clause (2) that Alur and Adoni taluks shall be included in, and become part of, Kurnool district and the Rayadrug taluk shall be included in, and become part of, Anantapur district.

Clause 4: Sub-clause (1) of this clause makes provision for the transfer of all the taluks of the Bellary district except Adoni, Alur and Rayadrug to the State of Mysore. Sub-clause (2) provides that the territory so transferred to the State of Mysore shall form a separate district to be known as Bellary district.

Clause 5 seeks to make certain consequential amendments in the First Schedule to the Constitution.

Clause 6 deals with the representation of the new State of Andhra and the residuary State of Madras in the Council of States. The allocation of seats in the Council of States as shown in the Fourth Schedule to the Constitution was made on the basis of the population of each State according to the 1941 census, and the number of seats to which each State would be entitled was determined according to the following formula, viz.:—

For the first five millions of the population—1 seat for every one million.

For every succeeding two millions or any fraction thereof exceeding one-half—1 seat.

According to the 1941 census, the population of the areas which will comprise the residuary State of Madras and the new State of Andhra was 30·996 and 18·197 millions respectively. On the basis of the aforesaid formula the residuary State of Madras and the State of Andhra will therefore be entitled to 18 and 12 seats respectively. The population of the State of Mysore including the areas sought to be transferred thereto from the State of Madras is according to the said census 7·96 millions, and therefore on the basis of the aforesaid formula the State of Mysore will not be entitled to more than 6 seats which is the present number of seats allotted to that State in the Fourth Schedule to the Constitution.

Clause 7 seeks to make certain consequential amendments in the Fourth Schedule to the Constitution.

Clause 8 and the First Schedule: There are at present 27 members representing the State of Madras in the Council of States, and of these 9 belong to Andhra areas and 18 belong to non-Andhra areas. Clause 8 seeks to allocate the said 9 members to the State of Andhra and the remaining 18 members to the residuary State of Madras. The names of all these 27 members are specified in the First Schedule.

Clause 9: After the allocation of 9 sitting members to the State of Andhra and the remaining 18 sitting members to the State of Madras, there will be 3 vacancies in the total number of seats allotted to the State of Andhra in the Council of States. These will be filled by a bye-election held soon after the appointed day, that is, the 1st October, 1953.

Clause 10: Under clause (1) of article 83 of the Constitution, as nearly as may be one-third of the members of the Council of States shall retire as soon as may be on the expiration of every second year in accordance with the provisions made in that behalf by Parliament by law. Sub-section (2) of section 154 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951 (XLIII of 1951) provides that the term of office of a member of the Council of States other than a member chosen to fill a casual vacancy shall be six years, but upon the first constitution of the Council of States the President shall, after consultation with the Election Commission, make by order such provision as he thinks fit for curtailing the term of office of some of the members then chosen in order that, as nearly as may be, one-third of the members holding seats of each class shall retire in every second year thereafter. Under the Council of States (Term of Office of Members) Order, 1952 made by the President under that sub-section, the terms of office of the 27 sitting members representing the State of Madras in the Council of States have been determined and they have been indicated in the First Schedule. It appears that out of the 9 sitting Andhra members, 3 have a six-year term, 2 a four-year term and 4 a two-year term. In order that one-third of the members who will represent Andhra may retire every second year, it is proposed to select by lot one of the two sitting members having a four-year term and to give him a six-year term and then to give to each of the three new members to be elected to the Council of States by the elected members of the Andhra Legislative Assembly a four-year term. Of the remaining 18 sitting Madras members, 6 have a six-year term, 7 a four-year term and 5 a two-year term. In this case also in order that one-third of the members who will represent the residuary State of Madras may retire in every second year, it is proposed to select by lot one of the 7 sitting members having a four-year term and to reduce his term to 2 years. The terms of office of all the other sitting members will remain unaltered.

Clause 11 deals with the representation of the new State of Andhra, the residuary State of Madras and the State of Mysore in the House of the People. The number of seats in the House of the People at present allotted to the State of Madras has been calculated on the basis of the population of that State as determined in accordance with the order of the President issued under article 387 of the Constitution. On the same basis the new State of Andhra, the residuary State of Madras and the State of Mysore will be entitled to 28, 46 and 12 seats respectively. Sub-clause (2) of this clause seeks to make the necessary modifications in the First Schedule to the Representation of the People Act, 1950 (XLIII of 1950).

Clause 12 and the Second Schedule: Clause 12 seeks to make modifications in the Madras and Mysore Delimitation of Parliamentary and Assembly Constituencies Orders in view of the formation of the new State of Andhra and the transfer of certain areas from the State of Madras to the State of Mysore. A composite Andhra and Madras Order providing for the constituencies for the State of Andhra and the State of Madras in two separate parts has been proposed in place of the existing Delimitation of Parliamentary and Assembly Constituencies (Madras) Order, 1951. The Alur and Adoni taluks of the Bellary district have been shown as forming part of the Kurnool district and the Rayadrug taluk of the Bellary district has been shown as forming part of the Anantapur district in the revised lists of Parliamentary and Assembly constituencies for the State of Andhra and certain modifications have been proposed in the entries relating to Kurnool and Anantapur Parliamentary constituencies. It is also proposed to modify the Delimitation of Parliamentary and Assembly Constituencies (Mysore) Order, 1951 to include therein constituencies comprising the taluks of the Bellary district sought to be added to the State of Mysore by sub-clause (1) of clause 4. All these modifications have been set out in the Second Schedule.

Clause 13 provides for the allocation of the sitting members of the House of the People representing the constituencies which are transferred, whether with or without alteration of boundaries, to the new State of Andhra or the State of Mysore on the appointed day, to the constituencies as so transferred. Of the existing 75 members in the House of the People representing the various constituencies in the State of Madras, 28 members have been allotted to the new State of Andhra, 46 to the residuary State of Madras and 1 to the State of Mysore.

Clause 14 deals with electoral rolls for the modified Parliamentary constituencies. It is proposed that the electoral roll for a modified Parliamentary constituency will be made up of so much of the electoral roll or rolls for any Parliamentary constituency or constituencies as relate to the areas comprised within the modified constituency.

Clause 15 provides for the strength of the Legislative Assemblies of the new State of Andhra, the residuary State of Madras and the State of Mysore. Of the existing 375 seats in the Legislative Assembly of Madras, 140 seats have been allotted to the Legislative Assembly of Andhra, 230 to the Legislative Assembly of the residuary State of Madras and the remaining 5 seats have been added to the existing number of seats in the Legislative Assembly of Mysore. Sub-clause (2) of this clause seeks to make the necessary modifications in the Second Schedule to the Representation of the People Act, 1950 (XLIII of 1950).

Clause 16 provides for the allocation of certain sitting members of the Legislative Assembly of Madras to the Legislative Assemblies of the new State of Andhra and the State of Mysore. It is proposed that every sitting member who represents any constituency which is on the appointed day transferred, whether with or without alteration of boundaries to the new State of Andhra or the State of Mysore will cease to be a member of the Legislative Assembly of Madras and shall be deemed to represent the constituency as so transferred in the Legislative Assembly of Andhra or of Mysore, as the case may be. It has also been made clear that the member nominated to the Legislative Assembly of Madras before the appointed day to represent the Anglo-Indian community will continue to represent that community in the Legislative Assembly of the residuary State of Madras.

Clause 17 deals with the duration of the Legislative Assemblies of the three States. As there will be no general election to constitute the Legislative Assembly of the new State of Andhra and that Assembly will be composed of members transferred from the Legislative Assembly of the undivided State of Madras, it is proposed that the life of the Andhra Legislative Assembly should not be longer than that of the Madras Legislative Assembly. It has also been made clear that the duration of the Legislative Assemblies of Madras and Mysore will not be affected by the changes in their composition.

Clause 18 contains provisions in respect of electoral rolls for the modified Assembly constituencies on the lines similar to those contained in clause 14 in respect of electoral rolls for modified Parliamentary constituencies.

Clause 19—It is proposed to reduce the number of seats in the Legislative Council of Madras from 72 to 51. The distribution of these 51 seats among the categories referred to in sub-clauses (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) of clause (3) of article 171 of the Constitution will, until the 22nd day of April, 1954, be 14, 4, 4, 18 and 11 respectively, and, as from the 22nd day of April, 1954, be 14, 6, 4, 18 and 9 respectively. The distribution of seats in the manner referred to above has been proposed to ensure that no sitting member belonging to any of the areas which will form part of the residuary State of Madras is eliminated. The change in the distribution of seats as from the 22nd day of April, 1954, is intended to reduce the number of nominated seats from 11 to 9 and to increase the number of seats allotted to the Madras (Graduates) Constituency from 4 to 6 and thereby to ensure the retirement of, as far as possible, one-third of the members of each category on the expiration of every second year. Although the distribution of the seats in the manner stated above will not be in conformity with the provisions of clause (3) of article 171, it would be competent for Parliament to make such changes in the composition of the Council under clause (2) of that article. It is also proposed that at the time of the biennial election to fill the seats of members of the Council retiring on the 21st day of April, 1954, the Madras (Graduates) Constituency will elect two more members in order to make the total of 6 members.

Clause 20 and the Third Schedule.—Clause 20 seeks to make certain modifications in the Delimitation of Council Constituencies (Madras) Order, 1951 in view of the diminution of the area of the State of Madras as a result of transfer of territories therefrom to form the new State of Andhra and to the State of Mysore. These modifications have been indicated in the Third Schedule. The proviso to this clause seeks to make a further modification in the said Order to give effect to the increase in the number of seats allotted to the Madras (Graduates) Constituency as from the 22nd day of April, 1954.

Clause 21 and the Fourth Schedule.—The Legislative Council of Madras has at present 72 members of whom 21 belong to the Andhra area and the area sought to be transferred to the State of Mysore. As there will be no Legislative Council in the State of Andhra and as also no addition to the existing number of seats in the Legislative Council of Mysore is possible in view of the provisions of clause (1) of article 171 of the Constitution, all these 21 members will have to cease to be members of the Council on the appointed day. The names and terms of office of the remaining 51 members have been specified in the Fourth Schedule.

In order that, as nearly as possible, one-third of the members may retire on the expiration of every second year as required under clause (2) of article 172 of the Constitution, it is necessary to revise the terms of office of some of the members. Necessary provisions in that behalf have been included in the Fourth Schedule. It will appear from those provisions that, except in the case of one nominated member having a 4-year term, the term of office of no member has been reduced. As the number of nominated members in the Council will be reduced from 11 to 9 as from the 22nd day of April, 1954, only three persons will be nominated in place of the five nominated members retiring on the 21st day of April, 1954.

Clause 22 and the Fifth Schedule.—Sub-clause (1) of clause 22 seeks to make certain modifications in the entry relating to the Chitaldrug (Local Authorities) constituency in the Delimitation of Council Constituencies (Mysore) Order, 1951, so as to include therein the areas of the Bellary district sought to be added to the State of Mysore by sub-clause (1) of clause 4. These modifications have been indicated in the Fifth Schedule. The object of sub-clause (2) is to ensure that the area sought to be added to the State of Mysore by sub-clause (1) of clause 4 is included in the Mysore (Graduates) constituency and the Mysore (Teachers) constituency, each of which extends over the whole of the State.

Sub-clauses (3) and (4) seek to continue the representation of the modified constituencies in the Legislative Council of Mysore by the sitting members who represented those constituencies before they were modified.

Clause 23.—In view of the inclusion of certain areas of the Bellary district in the Chitaldrug (Local Authorities) constituency of the Mysore Legislative Council, it will be necessary to prepare a fresh electoral roll for the modified constituency especially as the Local Authorities specified in the Fourth Schedule to the Representation of the People Act, 1950 (XLIII of 1950) in relation to the State of Madras are not the same as those specified in that Schedule in relation to the State of Mysore. It will be also necessary to revise the electoral rolls of the Mysore (Graduates) constituency and the Mysore (Teachers) constituency in view of the alteration of the extent of those constituencies. All these have been provided for in this clause.

Clause 24 and the Sixth Schedule.—In view of the formation of the State of Andhra and the transfer of certain areas of the Bellary district to the State of Mysore, it will be necessary to make certain modifications in the Constitution (Scheduled Castes) Order, 1950 and the Constitution (Scheduled Tribes) Order, 1950. Clause 24 seeks to provide for these modifications which are set out in the Sixth Schedule.

Clause 25 seeks to apply the rules of procedure with respect to the Madras Legislative Assembly to the Andhra Legislative Assembly, subject to necessary modifications and adaptations pending the making of rules by the Andhra Legislative Assembly under clause (1) of article 208 of the Constitution.

Clauses 26 and 27 seek to make certain consequential amendments in the Representation of the People Act, 1950 (XLIII of 1950) and the Delimitation Commission Act, 1952 (LXXXI of 1952).

Clauses 28 to 39 provide for the establishment of a separate High Court for the State of Andhra. The separate High Court will come into existence on the 1st January, 1956, or on such earlier date as the President may fix if a resolution recommending the establishment of such a High Court at an earlier date is adopted by the Andhra Legislative Assembly and submitted to him.

Clause 40 provides that until a separate High Court is established for the State of Andhra, the jurisdiction of the Madras High Court shall extend to that State and the said High Court shall in relation to that State continue to have the jurisdiction it had immediately before the appointed day.

Clause 41 seeks to confer jurisdiction on the High Court of Mysore in relation to the territories sought to be added to that State by sub-clause (1) of clause 4. Provisions similar to those contained in clause 38 with regard to the transfer of proceedings from the Madras High Court to the Andhra High Court have also been included in this clause for the transfer of proceedings from the Madras High Court to the Mysore High Court. Under these provisions such of the proceedings pending in the High Court of Madras as are certified by the Chief Justice of that High Court, having regard to the place of accrual of the cause of action and other circumstances, to be proceedings which ought to be heard and decided by the High Court of Mysore will be transferred to that High Court. Powers have however been reserved to the Madras High Court to entertain, hear and dispose of proceedings seeking any relief in respect of any judgment, decree or order passed by that High Court before the appointed day. But even in respect of such proceedings after they have been entertained by the Madras High Court, power has been conferred on the Chief Justice of that High Court to transfer such proceedings to the Mysore High Court if he considers appropriate. A provision has also been included in this clause for enabling the advocates who are authorised to appear or act in proceedings pending before the Madras High Court which are transferred to the Mysore High Court to appear or act in relation to these proceedings before the Mysore High Court.

Clause 43 confers power on the Governor of Madras for the authorization of expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of the State of Andhra and the Consolidated Fund of the residuary State of Madras to enable the administration of these States to be carried on until the Legislatures of the respective States sanction such expenditure. It also confers power on the Rajpramukh of Mysore for the authorization of expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of that State to enable the State to meet the additional expenditure in respect of the territory added to that State pending the sanction of such expenditure by the Mysore Legislature. The powers so conferred are to be exercised before the appointed day and the amount of expenditure which may be sanctioned has been limited to expenditure for a period of not more than three months.

Clause 44.—It appears that the Budget of the Madras Government for 1953-54 has been presented to the Houses of the Madras Legislature but the Madras Legislative Assembly has not so far voted on the grants. It is unlikely that the Assembly will vote on the grants and follow this up by the passing of an Appropriation Bill as contemplated in articles 203 and 204 of the Constitution before the 1st October, 1953. This clause accordingly seeks to regularise the position by providing that notwithstanding the failure of the Madras Legislative Assembly to vote on the grants and of the Madras Legislature to pass the necessary Appropriation Bill, the vote on account passed by that Assembly and the consequent Appropriation Bill passed by that Legislature will be sufficient authority for the incurring of expenditure covered by the said vote on account and for the withdrawal of moneys from the Consolidated Fund of the State in relation to such expenditure before the appointed day.

Clause 45.—In view of the transfer of territories from the State of Madras, any Appropriation Act passed before the date of such transfer for authorising expenditure for the undivided State of Madras in respect of any part of the financial year 1953-54 will not hold good after that date. It is accordingly provided in this clause that as from the appointed day any such Appropriation Act shall cease to have effect.

Clause 46.—Under clause (2) of article 151 of the Constitution the reports of the Comptroller and Auditor-General of India relating to the accounts of a State are to be submitted to the Governor or Rajpramukh of the State who is to lay them before the Legislature of the State. The audit reports relating to the accounts of the undivided State of Madras in respect of any period prior to the appointed day would really concern the State of Andhra and the residuary State of Madras. The State of Mysore to which only a small portion of the State of Madras is being transferred will hardly be concerned with such reports. It is accordingly proposed that the said reports shall be submitted to the Governor of each of the States of Andhra and Madras who shall cause them to be laid before the Legislature of the State.

Clause 47 provides for the apportionment of the assets and liabilities of the undivided State of Madras between the residuary

State of Madras and the States of Andhra and Mysore. The detailed provisions as to apportionment are laid down in the Seventh Schedule. A provision for settlement by the President of any dispute as to apportionment has been included.

Clause 48 deals with the apportionment of rights and liabilities of the State of Madras as constituted immediately before the appointed day accruing under any contract. It is based mainly on article 8 of the Indian Independence (Rights, Property and Liabilities) Order, 1947. It is intended mainly to apply to contracts between the existing Madras State and private parties. As it is worded, it will also apply to inter-State contracts to which the existing Madras State is a party. If as a result of the division of the Madras State there is any difficulty in giving effect to any such inter-State contract, the proper course appears to be for the States concerned to enter into fresh contracts after the appointed day.

Clause 49 deals with the apportionment of liability of the State of Madras as constituted immediately before the appointed day in respect of an actionable wrong other than breach of contract. It is based mainly on article 10 of the Order referred to in the note regarding clause 48.

Clause 50 seeks to transfer the liability of the undivided State of Madras as guarantor in respect of any liability of a co-operative society operating only within the territories which are to form the State of Andhra to the State of Andhra.

Clause 51 confers power on the President to rectify any inequity which may result from the apportionment of the assets and liabilities in accordance with the principles sought to be laid down in the Bill.

Clause 52 seeks to provide that any money payable by one of the States of Madras, Andhra and Mysore to any of the other two States or to the Central Government in respect of any liability of the undivided State of Madras for debt charges or pensionary charges shall be charged on the Consolidated Fund of the State by which the amount is so payable.

Clause 53.—The formation of the State of Andhra and the addition of territory to the State of Mysore are brought about under the Constitution. The laws in force immediately before the appointed day in the State of Madras will not lapse on the splitting up of that State. This clause makes it clear that the territorial extent or application of any such law will not be affected by any changes in the territories of the States of Madras and Mysore. It has been also made clear that the territorial references in any such law to the State of Madras or of Mysore may be repealed or amended by a competent Legislature or other competent authority.

Clause 54 provides power for the adaptation of laws for facilitating their application in relation to the State of Andhra, the residuary State of Madras or the State of Mysore. Powers have been conferred on the Central Government as respects the adaptation of laws relating to matters enumerated in List I of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution and on the State Governments as respects the adaptation of other laws. The powers so conferred are to be exercised before the 1st April, 1954.

Clause 55 confers power on every court, tribunal and other authority required or empowered to enforce any law to construe such law with necessary adaptations.

Clause 56 confers power on the Governor of Andhra and the Rajpramukh of Mysore to specify the authority, officer or person who is to exercise, as from the appointed day, in the State of Andhra or the territory sought to be added to the State of Mysore by sub-clause (1) of clause 4 any functions exercisable under any law in force on that day. This provision will enable such authority, officer or person to be named without having recourse to the powers for the adaptation of laws provided in clause 54 whenever necessary.

Clause 57 provides for the substitution or addition of parties in legal proceedings concerning the undivided State of Madras in the case where any property, right or liability of that State or any part of such property, right or liability is transferred to any or both of the States of Andhra and Mysore.

Clause 58 provides for the transfer of certain proceedings pending immediately before the appointed day before a court (other than the High Court), tribunal, authority or officer to the corresponding court, tribunal, authority or officer in the State of Andhra if it relates exclusively to Andhra territory, and to the corresponding court, tribunal, authority or officer in the State of Mysore if it relates exclusively to the territory sought to be added to that State by sub-clause (1) of clause 4.

Clause 59 and the Eighth Schedule: In the areas which will form the State of Andhra there is at present no jail for women or borstal institution. This clause accordingly seeks to make available to the Government of Andhra for a period of five years certain jails and institutions in the residuary State of Madras and the territory sought to be added to the State of Mysore as a transitory arrangement. These jails and institutions are specified in the Eighth Schedule. As these jails and institutions are outside the territories which will form the State of Andhra, a provision has been also included for authorising committal to, and detention in, such jails and institutions.

Clause 60 and the Ninth Schedule: Clause 60 makes provision for the continuance of facilities in respect of certain institutions situated in the State of Madras or in the territory sought to be added to the State of Mysore, to the Government and the people of the State of Andhra. All these institutions are specified in the Ninth Schedule.

Clause 61 provides for two separate cadres—one for the State of Andhra and the other for the State of Madras—in respect of the Indian Administrative Service and the Indian Police Service in place of the existing cadres in respect of those services in the State of Madras. It also confers power on the President to determine the strength and composition of the new cadres and to allocate individual officers thereto. A provision has been also included so as to obviate the necessity of issuing fresh orders of appointment of officers allocated to the cadres for the State of Andhra except in the cases where such officers are not already in position in posts in the areas which will form the State of Andhra. In the case where the officers are immediately before the appointed day in position in certain posts in those areas they shall on that day be deemed to have been duly appointed to those posts.

Clause 62 provides for the allocation of officers borne on the Madras cadre of the Indian Civil Service, the Indian Police, the Indian Service of Engineers and the Indian Forest Service to the States of Andhra and Madras as clause 61 will not cover the allocation of such officers. A provision similar to that made in sub-clause (3) of clause 61 has also been included in this clause.

Clause 63 provides for the allocation of officers of the State and Subordinate Services of the undivided State of Madras in a manner which would be fair and equitable and in the interests of the States concerned as well as of the officers.

Sub-clause (1) of this clause enables the President to issue general orders finally allocating to the Andhra State the non-gazetted staff in District establishments lying within the Andhra territory. Such staff is generally recruited locally and is not normally liable to be transferred outside the districts or areas in which their offices lie.

Sub-clause (2) of this clause will enable the President to make special orders to provide for service in Andhra the necessary number of gazetted officers and members of the State Services who are ordinarily liable to serve in any part of the State. The Officers specified in such orders will be required to serve in Andhra.

Sub-clause (3) of this clause will obviate in as many cases as possible the necessity for the Andhra Government to issue formal orders of appointments which come into effect on the 1st October. It is intended before that date to ensure that as many as possible of the officers required under sub-clause (2) to serve in Andhra are transferred to posts located in the Andhra territory. They will be covered by paragraph (a) of this sub-clause.

Sub-clause (4) of this clause provides for the classification of the officers who are required under sub-clause (2) to serve in Andhra into two categories, namely:—

(i) officers whose allocation to Andhra is final, and

(ii) officers whose services will be at the disposal of the Andhra Government for a limited period to enable that Government to make proper arrangements for their replacement. Such officers will, thereafter, return to the residuary State.

Sub-clause (5) of this clause provides that the period of deputation of any of the officers falling in the second of the two categories mentioned in sub-clause (4) will be three years, but the Andhra Government may return any such officer to the State of Madras before the expiration of three years after giving three months' notice to him and to the Madras Government.

Sub-clause (6) of this clause empowers the President to make the classification contemplated in sub-clause (4) in accordance with his opinion as to the suitability of particular officers for final allotment to serve in Andhra.

Sub-clause (7) of this clause is intended to make it clear that officers falling in the second of the two categories mentioned in sub-clause (4) will be treated as officers of the residuary State whose services are placed at the disposal of the Andhra State on deputation for a limited period.

Sub-clauses (8) and (9) of this clause are designed to preserve the legitimate rights and interests of officers of the aforesaid second category.

Sub-clause (10) of this clause expressly saves from the operation of this clause the officers of the new and former All-India Services.

Clause 64 empowers the President to issue directions for the purpose of giving effect to the provisions of clauses 61, 62 and 63 and for ensuring the proper division of services among the States of Madras, Andhra and Mysore.

Clause 65: Under clause (2) of article 323 of the Constitution, the State Public Service Commission has to present annually to the Governor or Rajpramukh of the State a report as to the work done by the Commission and on receipt of such report the Governor or the Rajpramukh is required to cause a copy thereof together with a memorandum explaining as respects the cases, if any, where the advice of the Commission was not accepted, the reasons for such non-acceptance, to be laid before the Legislature of the State. The report as to the work done by the Madras Public Service Commission in respect of any period prior to the appointed day would really concern the States of Andhra and residuary Madras. The State of Mysore would hardly be concerned with it as it is not likely that the report will deal specially with any cases relating to the territory sought to be added to that State by sub-clause (1) of clause 4. It is accordingly proposed that the report for any such period shall be presented to the Governors of Andhra and Madras only. It is further proposed that any such report or the memorandum which is to accompany it under clause (2) of the said article 323 need not be laid before the Legislative Assembly of the State of Andhra as the Government of that State can hardly be expected to explain the reasons for non-acceptance of the recommendations of the Madras Public Service Commission by the Government of the undivided State of Madras but both the report and the memorandum will have to be laid before the Legislature of the residuary State of Madras.

Clause 66 seeks to make suitable arrangements in respect of the Tungabhadra Project and its administration. The residuary State of Madras will hardly be concerned with this Project after the appointed day as neither that State will derive any benefit from the Project nor will any of the distributaries or other works of the Project be located in its territory. The new State of Andhra and the State of Mysore will have to undertake all responsibilities in relation to this Project after the appointed day. It has accordingly been provided in this clause that all rights and liabilities of the Madras Government which will include not only the rights and liabilities in respect of the construction, administration, operation and maintenance of the Project but also the right to receive and utilise water and electric energy shall devolve on both the States of Andhra and Mysore, and they will be adjusted by agreement entered into by the two States after consultation with the President. Such agreement will also provide for any adjustment required in respect of the extension or further development of the Project after the appointed day. It is further proposed that if the said two States fail to enter into an agreement within two years after the appointed day, the President shall by order determine how the aforesaid rights and liabilities will be adjusted between them and the order of the President may be varied by a subsequent agreement entered into by them. In order to ensure the completion of the Project and its operation and maintenance thereafter, power has been given to the President to issue directions from time to time to the States concerned until an agreement is entered into by them or until the President issues an order determining the adjustment of the rights and liabilities of the two States, whichever is earlier.

Clause 67 seeks to confer power on the President to determine the allowances and privileges of the Governor of the new State of Andhra until Parliament makes provision in that behalf under clause (3) of article 158 of the Constitution to avoid any difficulties which may arise in determining such allowances and privileges under paragraphs 2 and 3 of the Second Schedule to the Constitution.

Clause 68 seeks to make it clear that the provisions of the Bill after it is enacted shall have effect notwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any other law.

Clause 69 provides power for the removal of any difficulty which may arise in giving effect to the provisions of the Bill after it is enacted.

Seventh Schedule: This Schedule contains the provisions as to apportionment of assets and liabilities between the States of Andhra, residuary Madras and Mysore. Paragraphs 1 to 10 deal with assets, paragraphs 12 to 17 deal with liabilities and paragraphs 11, 18 and 19 deal with both assets and liabilities. The provisions as to apportionment embodied in the Schedule are based generally on the recommendations of Mr. Justice Wanchoo contained in his Report on the Formation of Andhra State. The proportions mentioned in paragraphs 2, 6(3), 7(1), 7(2), 8, 9, 17(3) and 17(4) have been calculated on the basis of the population of the residuary State of Madras, the State of Andhra and the territory sought to be added to the State of Mysore by sub-clause (1) of clause 4 of the Bill. According to the 1951 census—

the total population of the undivided State of Madras is	57,016,002
the population of the areas which will form the residuary State of Madras is	35,734,489
the population of the areas which will form the State of Andhra is	20,507,801
the population of the territory to be added to the State of Mysore by sub-clause (1) of clause 4 (i.e., all the taluks of Bellary district other than Alur, Adoni and Rayadrug) is	773,712

Thus the population of the residuary Madras, Andhra and Mysore will respectively be 62½ per cent., 36 per cent. and 1½ per cent. of the total population of the undivided State of Madras.

In regard to allocation of debt dealt with in paragraph 12 of this Schedule, the report of Mr. Justice Wanchoo contemplated a set-off in favour of each of the three States of a debt equal to the sum recoverable from local bodies, etc. at the first stage. But this procedure has not been followed in the Schedule as it may not secure an equitable allocation in view of the uncertainty about the extent to which the outstandings may prove to be bad debts.

It has been made clear in the proviso to sub-paragraph (3) of paragraph 12 of this Schedule that the allocation of the debt relating to the Tungabhadra Project is provisional and the final allocation will be made on such basis as may be agreed upon between the States concerned or, in default of such agreement, as may be fixed by order of the President.

Provision has been made in paragraph 2 of this Schedule for the special allocation of the proceeds of any public loan that may be raised by the undivided State of Madras between the 1st July 1953 and the appointed day, and in paragraph 12 of this Schedule for the apportionment in a special way of such loan and of any loan that may be taken from the Central Government before the appointed day for the temporary capital of the State of Andhra or for purposes incidental thereto.

M. N. KAUL,
Secretary.
